Dear NVPians,

Greetings to you all!

Welcome to the November Issue of NVP Newsletter!

It is always a pleasure to share the collective progress NVP Volunteers and Beneficiary Institutions make. We have, time and time again, stressed over the positive difference we make in the society together in terms of providing learning opportunities and helping the needy. This read will highlight the efforts we make, fueled by your continuous support.

Month of October had us increase the NVP outreach, appreciate our well deserving Interns, and as usual provide human resources aid to our partner Institutions as per their requirement.

As any noble cause/campaign face challenges, we are no different. However, a shout-out to all of you, who inspire us and keep us going and restore our faith in our mission, NVP is grateful and determined to work for you and with you more than ever!

Warmest Regards,

SEE WHAT THE VOLUNTEERS HAVE TO SAY ABOUT THEIR EXPERIENCE

Rizwan Tareef

Served at Robin Hood Army as Coordinator for Food Distribution

First of all, I would like to Thank NVP for opening up this world of Volunteerism and involving me in this noble cause. I volunteered at Robin Hood Army, a group of young highly motivated and disciplined people. I have visited with them Orphanages, Slum Areas, and Hospitals. It is not about just providing them with the food, it is the emotional connection we make with them. We assemble the Children there, interact with them, play games with them and then serve them with the food in a highly dignified manner.

The best part about interacting with them is, their responses fill you up with immense satisfaction and I can't really describe the feeling. All in all, it is a noble and learning experience since you help the community by working in teams, that enhances your leadership skills.

Sehar Fareed

Served at Hunar Foundation as Resource Mobilization Associate

I found out about NVP through Facebook, driven by my curiosity I registered with NVP. To my delightedness, the platform of NVP is so flexible that there aren't many bounding factors or mechanistic approaches. This platform makes sure that if you want to Volunteer, they make ways for you to do so. For instance: I was doing both, going to work (I am teacher), and volunteering as well. I volunteered at The Hunar Foundation, they provide vocational training, the work place is pleasant and full of learning as the work was rotational.

Wajahat Ali

Served at Sehat Kahani as Community Ambassador

When you Volunteer, learning tiny little things matter. For Instance: I learned how to operate medical equipment and got a chance to teach others as well.

Awais Rafiq

Served at Sehat Kahani as Community Ambassador

My confidence level wasn't very high, I needed to work on my communication skills. That was the reason I got registered with NVP, and I can say I made the right decision.

Mahrukh Naseem

Served at Sehat Kahani as Community Ambassador

Through NVP, we were assigned to Sehat Kahani. Each camp required a different set of responsibilities and a different way of communication, which contributed in broadening our horizons. As challenging as it was, the more we gained out of the experience.

Maliha Naseem

Served at Sehat Kahani as Community Ambassador

Once we started Volunteering, we realized the dire need of social work in the community. We developed a sensitization for the society and are more than willing to continue volunteering. We get a chance to help the community and socialize as well and I think it is great.

THE SILENT SERVER

Abdul Azeem

Nothing at NVP goes unnoticed especially when it is about consistent effort from our Volunteers. Irrespective of how silently those volunteers carry out visionary approach of NVP, their impact echoes all around. We are talking about Abdul Azeem, Employee at Insiyabi Pakistan, who has surprised us time and time again and made us realize that, even while discharging their duty as a corporate professional it is never too difficult to take out time as a Volunteer.

NVP goes through a rigorous process of assigning Volunteers, keeping them engaged in the noble cause of serving the community and provides them recognition that they deserve. However, the Silent Server, Abdul Azeem is focused on his mission so vividly, that all he needed was one push and since then he has been involved in community service all on his own, simultaneously keeping NVP informed about all his meetings.

Even while discharging their duty as a Corporate professional it is never too difficult to take out time as a Volunteer.

Upon joining NVP Abdul Azeem went through a standard procedure, got acquainted with NVP team, attended the Orientation, got through the scrutiny and was handed over with his first assignment as Mentor for The Citizens Foundation - Rahbar Program. He successfully completed his term proving his strong commitment for serving the community. Then and onwards, he has led himself to the Beneficiary Institutions and discussed on his own regarding the areas he can serve. Following his term at TCF, he quietly made his way to Zindagi Trust KPS, and on the 3rd stage then continued the movement of his feet towards Injaz Pakistan. He has made it highly convenient for the NVP TEAM to monitor his services and contributions, that too very quietly. Feedback that we receive from Institutions where he has served, is highly encouraging.

These brilliant individuals are the true #corporate-citizens, they deserve all the attention and praises as they are far from extrinsic motivations, but are driven by their intrinsic enthusiasm, from a purpose, something that makes them click. We have immense respect for you The Silent Server, and this is a small token of appreciation from NVP TEAM on behalf of institutions you have worked with, and the lives you have improved.
